Mississippi ducks this year will escape an electronic terror weapon that is a little too accurate and much too deadly for ducks. The State Game and Fish Commission, said that modern electronic duck callers have been outlawed throughout the United States. The electronic caller is a small record player, battery operated, which reproduces actual duck calls to bring the unsuspecting fowl within gun range. This year, McRaney said, duck hunters can listen to the records to perfect their ordinary callers, he said. Mississippi duck season opens November 7, a half-hour before sunrise.

PRICE OF MILK COWS HIGHEST SINCE 1953

The selling price of milk cows on American farms is now about $365 a head. This is the highest price recorded since 1953. The value of a milk cow is based on her ability as a producer of milk and on her worth as a slaughter animal. Her value as a milk producer is determined by changes in cost-price relationships and how much milk she produces. Although milk prices have not changed much this year, lower prices for dairy feeds have resulted in the most favorable milk-feed price relationship since 1945, when special wartime payments were made to encourage a large output of milk.

Production per cow will be the highest in 1957 of any year on record. A cow's carcass value is influenced by the supply and demand for beef. Cull dairy animals have brought higher prices in recent months as beef production trends downward.

Miss. State Fair To Open October

The State's biggest show of the year officially got underway at 1:30 p. m. October 7 when all exhibits and amusement features of the 1957 Mississippi State Fair will be opened to the public. Regardless of age or entertainment tastes, there's something to see and enjoy for everyone at this exciting event, currently called the "Show Window" of Agriculture and Industry.

The two new exhibit buildings, which will house the more than 90 outstanding displays and booths as well as the big Arts and Crafts show, add a bright note of color along with ultra-modern design to attract the visitor even before he enters the new change-colored five-hurricane gate, through which all foot traffic will be admitted to the grounds.

A wide variety of entertainment and amusement has been planned for Fair Week with the highlights scheduled as follows: Opening day is also Press Day, with Legislators Day to be observed on Tuesday, October 8, along with Veterans Day.

State, County and Municipal government officials will be recognized on Institutional Day, Wednesday, October 9, while October 10 is to be Farmers' and Livestock Day and Aviation Day. A salute to the youngsters will take place Friday, October 11 which is to be set aside as School Day, at which time the gala Children's parade with beautiful floats and marching bands is to be held.

On the final day of the exposition, Saturday, October 12, Mississippi Travelers will be spotlighted. Strolling up the wide new concrete walkway which leads from the front entrance gate to the Agricultural and Industrial building, the fairgoer will find many attractions competing for his attention. If interested particularly in livestock, a visit to the new livestock building and the nearby arena where the judging and shows are to be held is a "must."

The commercial-minded visitor will find enjoyment at the exhibits and displays in the modern Industrial building, while the distasteful side of the family will want to see the interesting booths in the Women's Work department, where top quality examples of food preservation arts and crafts are to be shown. Lovers of horticultural perfection will delight in the distinctive arrangements of outstanding blooms on display at the Floral Department, while 4-H and FFA activities will appeal to those interested in the achievements of Mississippi's leaders of tomorrow.

Along the glittering mile-long midway the sensational Royal American Shows offer a wider variety of amusement than ever before with more than 80 rides and shows including the popular "Harlem in Heaven," the great Western Star of Movies and the "Green Dots," a musical production being presented in the Jackson area for the first time at the State Fair. The new "look" which characterizes this year's exposition, extends even to the grandstand show as the 1957 version of 1957 replaces the musical revue seen in years past. Eight performances will be given, one each night at 8 with twilight shows scheduled on Tuesday, Oct. 7 and Friday, October 11, at 6 p. m. Lavish production numbers and intricate specialties will be presented by top names in skaters performing on a 40 by 90 foot ice rink.

Admission to the fairgrounds for persons over 15 years old is fifty cents; children between the ages of 6 and 15 are admitted for 25c, with those under 6 free when accompanied by a paid ticketholder.

AIRPORTS BECOME NECESSITY FOR TOWNS WANTING INDUSTRY

An airport is a "must" in the future of every new industry which locates in Mississippi. Big industry and big business have taken to the air, and without an airport they can never get their feet on the ground. The real big need today is for land and facilities to provide local communities with airports as an inducement to industry. Need rail and surface transportation and a building to operate in, but equally as important as these items, they need an airport for their business executives to land and take-off in their private craft. Miss. also, is one of the largest users of the nation of aircraft for agricultural purposes. Little yellow single-place craft buzz all over sprawling Delta farmlands. They are used for insect control, cotton poisoning, defoliation, seeding, fertilizing, weed control and many related uses.

Hilburn To Address Forestry Ass'n

Jackson, Miss. (Special) — The president of Mississippi State College will be the featured speaker at the nineteenth annual meeting of the Miss. Forestry Association in Jackson on Friday, Oct. 11.

Dr. Ben Hilburn, president of Mississippi State since 1953, will address some 300 Association members and their guests expected to attend the meeting. The speaker has served in many capacities at the college including administrative assistant to the president, registrar, and director of publicity. A veteran of World War I, Dr. Hilburn has been active in the American Legion, church work and many civic and professional organizations.

He is a member of the National Education Association, and is a former president of the Mississippi Registrars' Association and of the Southern Association of College Publicity Directors.

Davis Fair, Jr., of Louisville, vice-president of the Mississippi Forestry Association and chairman of the annual meeting, stated that every county in the state is expected to be represented at the meeting. Membership in the Association now includes some 1700 individuals, groups and companies interested in the advancement of forestry, he added.

Registration will be held from 11:30-12:30 p. m. on the mezzanine of the Edwards Hotel. Luncheon tickets will be on sale at that time.

The luncheon begins at 12:30 p. m. in the hotel's Crown Room with Association president R. C. Allen, of Philadelphia, in charge. During the luncheon, Allen will give a report on the Association's programs carried out during the past year. These programs include Boys Conservation Schools, Tree Farm program, membership drive, and Speakers Bureau which furnishes forestry speakers to civic and business clubs and other groups.

Dr. Hilburn will be introduced by C. B. Martin, State Forester and a director of the Assn. Following the address by Dr. Hilburn, each of the district Queens of the Forest and the new State Queen will be introduced by James R. Clark, of Crosby, a director of the Association and a member of the Mississippi Forestry Commission. Clark will present each of the lovely ladies with a gift on behalf of the Association.

Hancock County, which according to an economic index, pays 6 percent of the state's tax bill, will save $149,000 due to the reduction.

The MEC, serving the state as its chamber of commerce, said that actual savings to the nation in the 1958 budget will be only around $1 billion, because at least 75 percent of the appropriations were not scheduled to be actually spent until 1959 or later. This means a saving of some $5 million to Mississippi during 1958, with the rest of the saving coming through cutting future expenditures below requests made in the proposed budget.

An aroused public, voicing its criticism of too much government spending, can be given the major credit for the reductions, the Council release said. "Opposition to federal spending reached a high peak during the past session. It behooves individuals to continue to keep an eye on public spending, because the government can only spend what it takes or borrows from people."

COUNTY AGENT'S NOTES

FALL ARMYWORMS

Watch your young oats and wheat in Hancock County for fall armyworms damage. If not controlled, they can destroy your stands.

When you see skeletons of leaves in young grasses or small grains, poison immediately.

Either two pounds of technical toxaphene, or one pound of technical DDT or two tenths of a lb. technical dieldrin will give effective control. You can use either dust or spray. For spraying use one and a third quarts of six-pounds Toxaphene emulsion or a half gallon of two-pound DDT emulsion or one pint of one and a half pound dieldrin emulsion to the amount of water needed for one acre. Large acreage may be sprayed by airplane.

Dust with 20 percent toxaphene, 10 percent DDT or one and a half percent dieldrin. Apply 10 to 15 pounds per acre.

Do not graze dairy animals or fattening animals within 30 days of last application of poison.

For more information, come by this office and get a copy of the field crop insect leaflet, Extension publication 186.

SOW PASTURES

Pastures, good ones, can help you raise more pigs per litter, and make more money from your hogs.

The first step toward insuring big, fine litters of pigs is to keep your bred sows on good pasture. Real grazing from your sows can reduce the cost of raising pigs by 50 percent.

With top grazing, normally your bred sows will need only two to four pounds of a complete ration daily. Keep them in thrifty condition; don't let them get too fat.

Hogs prefer legumes and small grains for grazing. Plan now to plant some oats, wheat or rye, or a combination of these. Then in October, plant some clovers.

GREENVILLE AFB CHANGE DEPENDS ON SOIL SURVEY

Reports that soil conditions at Greenville Air Force Base are not suited for $20 million expansion program to change the installation from a training base to a Strategic Air Command Base. Certain soil conditions in the area have caused engineers to doubt that heavy jet bombers could operate but will not affect operation of the training base for at least two years. A re-evaluation of the survey to determine if heavy bombers can be landed is being sought. Plans to continue to keep an eye on public spending, because the government can only spend what it takes or borrows from people."

Have you wondered what things will be like in 1962? How much growth will there be in population? How many new homes, new stores and new industries will be built? Will there be new schools, hospitals and churches?

Answering these questions has become a major task in the electric utility industry. As our population increases, as new homes, schools and churches are built, the need for electricity also increases. And that need will be far greater in 1962 than it is today.

New electrical appliances and future conveniences must be considered too! For today's luxuries may well be tomorrow's necessities.

Right now our engineers are planning for five years in advance. Planning for 1962. Meeting the 1962 electrical needs will mean new generating units, new substations, poles, lines and all the other allied facilities necessary to have electricity at your command — the mere flip of a switch. To do this we must build in advance of the need. We must build for the future.

Just as today, an ample supply of dependable, low cost electricity will be available in 1962. And as always, it will be ready when you need it.

diocese during the summer. Normal atmosphere contains seemingly inexhaustible supply of carbon dioxide. However, the stands of corn restrict air movement and it is frequently stated that where corn has been watered and fertilized, carbon dioxide may be the factor limiting yield.

An experiment was started in 1950 to test these ideas. The land was highly fertilized, and corn was planted in 80-inch rows, with plants spaced 8 inches apart. The field was irrigated as needed. In certain plots, barnyard manure was added at 30 tons per acre, in others supplemental carbon dioxide was released each day, and a third group received a combination of the two.

Dry ice was used as a source of carbon dioxide. Insulated containers with small openings were suspended among the corn leaves, and carbon dioxide was released slowly throughout the day. Being heavier than air the carbon dioxide settled upon release and was retained in the plots by plastic fences 3 feet high.

Neither supplemental carbon dioxide nor manure increased the yield of corn above that obtained with heavy fertilization, adequate stands and supplemental irrigation. The experiment is being repeated and final conclusions have not been reached.

A highlight of this year's program will be the presentation of membership certificates to five life members of the Association, who along with their wives, will be honored guests.

Other special guests will include some 62 county winners in the second Sears-Roebuck Foundation Forestry Contest. The group will be in Jackson at that time on a two-day expense-paid trip given in recognition of their outstanding forestry work.

At 2:30 p. m. members of the Association will hold a business session to elect officers. Immediately following the election, a meeting of the newly elected executive Committee will be held to outline a program of activity for the coming year.

The Association's annual meeting is a climax to Forest National Day which includes the Forest and Forest Products Parade and crowning of the new State Queen of the Forest.

Mississippi Taxpayers To Save $24 Million Dollars

Mississippi taxpayers will eventually save $24 million because of the $5 billion reduction in appropriations made by the recent congress in the President's proposed budget, the Miss. Economic Council estimates.

The Council credits "an aroused public, voicing its criticism of too much government spending" as the major force behind the reduction in the proposed federal budget. The $24 million in eventual saving is arrived at by applying an economic index which shows the state to pay 0.48% of the federal tax bill.

Hancock County, which according to an economic index, pays .6 percent of the state's tax bill, will save $149,000 due to the reduction.

Dust with 20 percent toxophene, 10 percent DDT or one and a half percent dieldrin. Apply 10 to 15 pounds per acre.

Do not graze dairy animals or fattening animals within 30 days of last application or poison.

SOW PASTURES

Pastures, good ones, can help you raise more pigs per litter, and make more money from your hogs.

The first step toward insuring big, fine litters of pigs is to keep your bred sows on good pasture. Real grazing from your sows can reduce the cost of raising pigs by 50 percent.

With top grazing, normally your bred sows will need only two to four pounds of a complete ration daily. Keep them in thrifty condition; don't let them get too fat.

Hogs prefer legumes and small grains for grazing. Plan now to plant some oats, wheat or rye, or a combination of these. Then in October, plant some clovers.

FIRES

Protect your dry pasture grasses from fire. These fields, although dry, will save a lot on feed costs. Keep fire out.

GREENVILLE AFB CHANGE DEPENDS ON SOIL SURVEY

Reports that soil conditions at Greenville Air Force Base are not suited for $20 million expansion program to change the installation from a training base to a Strategic Air Command Base. Certain soil conditions in the area have caused engineers to doubt that heavy jet bombers could operate but will not affect operation of the training base for at least two years. A re-evaluation of the survey to determine if heavy bombers can be landed is being sought. Plans to continue to keep an eye on public spending, because the government can only spend what it takes or borrows from people.

They have been catching shrimp from the seawall all along the road.

According to Dave Ladner, bridge leader on the Highway Bridge, said they are still catching some speckles from the bridge. They are hitting plugs.

Has anyone been getting any flounders lately? Now is the time to get the big ones. Of course, a pair of boots will help matters a lot. That water is rather cool just now.

FALSE QUACK WON'T TRICK OUR DUCKS

Mississippi ducks this year will escape an electronic-age terror weapon that is "a little too accurate and much too deadly for ducks." Rex McKaney, Director of the State Game and Fish Commission, said that modern electronic duck callers have been outlawed throughout the United States. The electronic caller is a small record player, battery operated, which reproduces actual duck calls to bring the unsuspecting fowl within gun range. This year, McKaney said, duck hunters can listen to the records to perfect their ordinary callers," he said. Mississippi duck season opens November 7, a half-hour before sunrise.

PRICE OF MILK COWS HIGHEST SINCE 1953

The selling price of milk cows on American farms is now about $165 a head. This is the highest price recorded since 1953. The value of milk cow is based on her ability as a producer of milk and on her worth as a slaughter animal. Her value as a milk producer is determined by changes in cost-price relationships and how much milk she produces. Although milk prices have not changed much this year, lower prices for dairy feeds have resulted in the most favorable milk-fee price relationship since 1945, when special wartime payments were made to encourage a large output of milk.

Production per cow will be the highest in 1967 of any year on record. A cow's carcass value is influenced by the supply and demand for beef. Cull dairy animals have brought higher prices in recent months as beef production trends downward.

Davis Fair, Jr., of Louisville, vice-president of the Mississippi Forestry Association and chairman of the annual meeting, stated that every county in the state is expected to be represented at the meeting. Membership in the Association now includes some 1700 individuals, groups and companies interested in the advancement of forestry, he added.

Registration will be held from 11:30-12:30 p. m. on the mezzanine of the Edwards Hotel. Luncheon tickets will be on sale at that time.

The luncheon begins at 12:30 p. m. in the hotel's Crown Room with Association president R. C. Allen, of Philadelphia, in charge. During the luncheon, Allen will give a report on the Association's programs carried out during the past year. These programs include Boys Conservation Schools, Tree Farm program, membership drive, and Speakers Bureau which furnishes forestry speakers to civic and business clubs and other groups.

Dr. Hilburn will be introduced by C. B. Martin, State Forester and a director of the Assn. Following the address by Dr. Hilburn, each of the district Queens of the Forest and the new State Queen will be introduced by James R. Clark, of Crosby, a director of the Association and a member of the Mississippi Forestry Commission. Clark will present each of the lovely ladies with a gift on behalf of the Association.

Hancock County, which according to an economic index, pays .6 percent of the state's tax bill, will save $149,000 due to the reduction.

The MPC, serving the state as its chamber of commerce, said that actual savings to the nation in the 1958 budget will be only around $1 billion, because at least 75 percent of the appropriations cut were not scheduled to be actually spent until 1959 or later. This means a saving of some $5 million to Mississippi during 1958, with the rest of the saving coming through cutting future expenditures below requests made in the proposed budget.

"An aroused public, voicing its criticism of too much government spending, can be given the major credit for the reductions," the Council release said. "Opposition to federal spending reached a high peak during the past session. It behooves individ-

Have you wondered what things will be like in 1962? How much growth will there be in population? How many new homes, new stores and new industries will be built? Will there be new schools, hospitals and churches?

Answering these questions has become a major task in the electric utility industry. As our population increases, as new homes, schools and churches are built, the need for electricity also increases. And that need will be far greater in 1962 than it is today.

New electrical appliances and future conveniences must be considered too! For today's luxuries may well be tomorrow's necessities.

Right now our engineers are planning for five years in advance. Planning for 1962. Meeting the 1962 electrical needs will mean new generating units, new substations, poles, lines and all the other allied facilities necessary to have electricity at your command — the mere flip of a switch. To do this we must build in advance of the need. We must build for the future.

Just as today, an ample supply of dependable, low cost electricity will be available in 1962. And as always, it will be ready when you need it.

Boy Scouts, Parents Organize To View Exhibits

When 1957 Progress Week begins Oct. 13 and ending Oct. 19 this year and the Scout Exhibit is part of the "community participation" program theme of this year's event. Shaw said that in addition to Boy Scouts the arena's science students are specifically invited and that the public is welcome. Highlighting activities, he said, will be studies of rock formations, paleontology, and models of floodwater control projects. He also noted that the well-rounded program calls for demonstrations of two-way radio communication and for continuous movies throughout the day.

Harry Maxfield, Boy Scout Area Council, estimated that about 10,000 out of the 12,000 Scouts in the six parish areas would attend. Maxfield said Scouts are eager to see the 25 exhibits placed on display by industrial and other private groups interested in geology.

Shaw said activities would begin promptly at 9 a. m. and close at 5 p. m. or 6 p. m. depending upon the crowd. He said Scouts and leaders are expected from Orleans, St. Bernard, Jefferson, Plaquemine, Terrebonne, St. Charles, St. John the Baptist, Ascension, Annunciation, St. Tammany and Lafourche parishes as well as Hancock County in Mississippi.

The Society, which is a part of the American Association of Petroleum Geologists and the American Institute, is handling all details, Maxfield said, adding that the "Auditorium" display section on the Liberty Street (West) side, would house most exhibits, while movies will be shown on the "little auditorium" on the second floor.

Aiding Shaw and Harvey are James Connelly, Phillip Orley, Andrew L. Austin, Charles F. Igle.

GOOD RETURNS CONTINUE FROM WINTER GRAZING

State College, Miss. Results of 1956-57 winter grazing tests at the South Mississippi Branch Experiment Station show that ryegrass-crimson was the most profitable, followed by ryegrass-oats and wheat in that order. Results were measured in pounds of beef produced per acre.

The crops were planted October 11 to 13 and all made good growth during October and November. Oats gave a per-acre return of $43.88 costs, wheat $32.24, ryegrass $45.04 an ryegrass-crimson clover $53.09.

Steers were bought at $16.80 per hundredweight and sold at $21.00. Grazing began Nov. 30 and extended until May 9 on all pastures except the wheat where it ended April 10.

Commenting on the test, Agronomist Clyde Blount said:
"The 1956-57 grazing season was below average with dry weather in January and the development of disease in February as the cause of the low gain. The net profit was still satisfactory."

"Ryegrass was affected less by disease than the small grains therefore ryegrass gave better results than the small grains."

"The average for four years shows oats, ryegrass and ryegrass-crimson clover all produced about the same return per acre with the difference reflecting the difference in cost of seed. Wheat did not produce as much as the other crops due to the shorter grazing season. There was no advantage in favor of the ryegrass combination over oats or ryegrass and crimson and in most years the crimson clover made very little growth in competition with the ryegrass and actually contributed very little grazing to the combination."

"In general oats should be planted on the well drained soils and ryegrass on the poorly drained soils."

LET'S BUY IN MISSISSIPPI

On several previous occasions the Hancock County Board has officially endorsed the "Buy in Mississippi" campaign sponsored by the Advertising Club of Mississippi in cooperation with state newspapers, radio and television and various progressive-minded leaders.

Now that this urgent campaign has been launched, we again remind Mississippians of the many benefits to be derived by making purchases here in the state whenever possible. If as the old saying goes, "Heaven helps those who help themselves" here is an ideal opportunity to assist in developing greater prosperity for all of us.

Ernest McLaurin, president of the Advertising Club of Mississippi, stresses that a dollar spent here in Mississippi turns over an average of five times. Multiply this by the hundreds of thousands of dollars spent daily by home people and the total is indeed impressive.

The Miss. State Tax Commission's figures show that by out-of-state wholesalers to Mississippi merchants amount to over $500 million annually. Mississippi consumers purchase from out-of-state stores, mostly mail order houses, more than $80,000,000 per year.

Materials and supplies purchased by state firms from outside the state amount to over $21,000,000 annually. Needless to say, these vast expenditures must be diverted into home channels if we are to achieve maximum prosperity and increase our per capita income.

The current "Buy in Mississippi" campaign is more than a mere catch phrase or temporary slogan. It is a movement uniting people in all walks of life in a movement. By spending our dollars here at home we help ourselves, our neighbors and our state as a whole. On the other hand, dollars spent beyond our borders serve only to enrich others and measured largely in selfish terms.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Drexler who have spent the past several weeks in their Waveland Beach home returned to New Orleans this week and will spend some time on the coast during the fall and winter months. Mrs. Drexler has been ill in the past few weeks but is feeling much better since his prolonged rest at his summer home.

MORNING COFFEE

The charming new home of the Richard Shadoin's on Felicita St. was the setting last Thursday morning of one of the delightful fall morning coffee parties. Hosted by four of the town's attractive young matrons the guests included a large number of friends and the event was exceedingly well attended.

Mrs. Norman Renshaw, Mrs. Sam Whitfield and Mrs. Rene deMonte with Mrs. Shadoin greeted their friends at the entrance door, all attractively gowned in late fashion fall frocks. Fall fruits and flowers were in abundance throughout the reception area of the home in the decor and adorning the two coffee tables from which several intimate associates of the hostesses alternated in pouring trays with delectable goodies. The further enhanced in eye appeal by being placed on services holding attractive clusters of fruits.

Many friends who had not been in contact during the vacation months met and chatted over the summer happenings here and in spots visited on travels.

IN HOSPITAL

Mrs. Nelius Favre was rushed to Memorial Hospital Tuesday evening where she underwent emergency surgery. Her condition Wednesday was reported improved.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC

The City will discontinue the weekly Trash Pick-Up until further notice. This action is necessary because of the very pressing need of repairing damage to our streets and drainage as a result of this extended period of bad weather.

JOHN A. SCAFIDE
Mayor.

Announce Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Seuzeneau Blanchard announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter Miss Marianne Ellen Blanchard to Mr. Harvey Penfield Cole, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Davis Cole.

The wedding will claim much interest both on the Gulf Coast and in New Orleans. Celebration of the wedding will be on November 30 at 11:30 a. m. in Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church, Bay St. Louis.

The bride-elect is a graduate of St. Joseph's Academy and was graduated from the Hotel Dieu School of Nursing in August of this year. Her parents were former N. O. residents who have been making their home in Bay St. Louis for a number of years. She is the granddaughter of the late

Women's Society Christian Service Held Wednesday

The first business meeting of the new program year for the Women's Society of Christian Service was held Wednesday morning in Fellowship Hall of Main St. Methodist Church with the morning Circle acting as hostesses. Mrs. Sam Whitfield led the opening program of the year book, The March of Missions, using the theme, "How Large is Our World?" Mrs. T. P. Clapp, president, presided during the business session and heard reports and announcements from the various officers.

The Week of Prayer and Self Denial will be observed on October 19, under the direction of Mrs. B. L. Ramsey and speakers from Clarksdale, Miss. The objects for the Week of Prayer will be presented at the business meeting on Oct. 23. Mrs. H. L. Turnipseed, secretary of Missionary Education and Service, reported that the studies were underway in all three circles and gave a report on the recent rummage sale.

An informal luncheon followed the business session served by the ladies of the Morning Circle. 21 members were present. Almost a hundred people were present at the Sept. Family Night birthday supper in Fellowship Hall of the Methodist Church to honor the new teachers of Bay High School for the current year. Supt. and Mrs. Ingram were present along with the newly elected Supt. T. C. McCullough and Mrs. McCullough. A bountiful supper was enjoyed and a number of August and September birthdays were celebrated by lighting candles and placing them on the huge birthday cake.

Rally Day and Promotion Sunday was observed at the Main Street Methodist Church during the Sunday School hour on Sept. 29th. Mr. Lester Walters, Supt. of the Church School, presented Mrs. John McDonald who pictured the opportunities for Christian education from birth through the entire life of its members, in a program with a number of children, youth and adults taking part.

Certificates of Promotion were given those going from one department to another and Bibles were presented the third year primary children going into the Junior department. Harry Shattuck, Billy Kimbrell and Jane Ellison were presented 6 month perfect attendance pins. Teachers of the various classes were presented to the group and commended for their good work and faithfulness.

Three new buildings at the Miss State Fairgrounds - constructed with money from a $300,000 bond issue which will be repaid through gate receipts - to the State by the contractor. Two hangar-like modern buildings replaced the old agricultural and industrial frame building which has been razed.

A new livestock building east of the judging arena and north of the midway is also ready for use this fall. The State fair opens its week-long run on October 7.

Soil Conservation

By Sanford and Dunnam

The Soil Conservation Service assisted in the planning of four farms during the month of September. This assistance is made possible through the Hancock County Soil Conservation District Commissioners.

The farm plans were on Mr. Elvie D. Robinson's farm of Picayune, Miss.; Mrs. Frank Keller, Santa Rosa Community; Mr. C. P. Slay, Flatop; and Mr. Pinky Smith, Necaise Crossing. The S. C. S. furnishes the aerial photograph, with the land capability legend and a plain map on which the actual planning decisions are recorded, and the planning technician records the farmers' decisions according to fields located on the map.

The items of most interest shown in the planning of improved pastures, grass-crop rotation, and trees.

Hancock County had a total of 14.5 inches of rainfall recorded for the month of September. (Information furnished by the State Forest Service.) This heavy rainfall has helped to increase the pasture growth, but in some parts of the county, slowed down other farm activity, such as Corn and Hay Harvest.
